General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) - Policy

Purpose of the policy and background to the General Data Protection Regulation

This policy explains to club representatives/members, staff and the public about data protection. Personal data must be processed lawfully, fairly and transparently; collected for specified, explicit and legitimate purposes; be adequate, relevant and limited to what is necessary for processing; be accurate and kept up to date; be kept only for as long as is necessary for processing and be processed in a manner that ensures its security. This policy updates any previous data protection policy and procedures to include the additional requirements of GDPR which apply in the UK from May 2018. The Government have confirmed that despite the UK leaving the EU, GDPR will still be a legal requirement. This policy explains the duties and responsibilities of the club and it identifies the means by which the club will meet its obligations.

Identifying the roles and minimising risk

GDPR requires that everyone within the club must understand the implications of GDPR and that roles and duties must be assigned. The Club is the data controller, the Club Secretary is the data processor and the Data Protection Officer (DPO) is still to be confirmed. (It is the DPO's role to undertake an information audit and to manage the information collected by the club, the issuing of privacy statements, dealing with requests and complaints raised and also the safe disposal of information. If the DPO is the Club Secretary, this will be included in their Job Description. Appointing the Club Secretary as the DPO must avoid a conflict of interests, in that the DPO should not determine the purposes or manner of processing personal data.

GDPR requires continued care by everyone within the club, members and staff, in the sharing of information about individuals, whether as a hard copy or electronically. It should be noted that a breach of the regulations could result in the club facing a fine from the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) for the breach itself and also to compensate the individual(s) who may be adversely affected. Therefore, the handling of information is seen as high / medium risk to the club (both financially and reputationally) and one which must be included in the Risk Management Policy of the club. Such risk can be minimised by undertaking an information audit, issuing privacy statements, maintaining privacy impact assessments (an audit of potential data protection risks with new projects), minimising who holds data protected information and the club undertaking training in data protection awareness.

Data breaches

One of the duties assigned to the DPO is the investigation of any breaches. Personal data breaches should be reported to the DPO for investigation. The DPO will conduct this with the support of a Personnel Committee. Investigations should be undertaken within one month of the report of a breach. Procedures are in place to detect, report and investigate a personal data breach. The ICO will be advised of a breach where it is likely to result in a risk to the rights and freedoms of individuals – if, for example, it could result in discrimination, damage to reputation, financial loss, loss of confidentiality, or any other significant economic or social disadvantage. Where a breach is likely to result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of individuals, the DPO will also have to notify those concerned directly.

It is unacceptable for non-authorized users to access IT using employees' log-in passwords or to use equipment while logged on. It is unacceptable for employees, volunteers and members to use IT in any way that may cause problems for the Club, for example the discussion of internal club matters on social media sites could result in reputational damage for the Club and to individuals.

Privacy Statements

Being transparent and providing accessible information to individuals about how the Club uses personal data is a key element of the Data Protection Act 1998 (DPA) and the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). The most common way to provide this information is in a privacy statement. This is a statement to inform individuals about what a club does with their personal information. A privacy statement will contain the name and contact details of the data controller and Data Protection Officer, the purpose for which the information is to be used and the length of time for its use. It should be written clearly and should advise the individual that they can, at any time, withdraw their agreement for the use of this information. Issuing of a privacy statement must be detailed on the Information Audit kept by the club. The club will adopt a privacy statement to use, although some changes could be needed depending on the situation, for example where children are involved. All privacy statements must be verifiable.

Information Audit

The DPO must undertake an information audit which details the personal data held, where it came from, the purpose for holding that information and with whom the club will share that information. This will include information held electronically or as a hard copy. Information held could change from year to year with different activities, and so the information audit will be reviewed at least annually or when the club undertakes a new activity. The information audit review should be conducted ahead of the review of this policy and the reviews should be minuted.

Individuals' Rights

GDPR gives individuals rights with some enhancements to those rights already in place:

- the right to be informed
- the right of access
- the right to rectification
- the right to erasure (enhancement of rights)
- the right to restrict processing
- right to data portability (enhancement of rights)
- the right to object
- the right not to be subject to automated decision-making including profiling.

The two enhancements of GDPR (shown above) are that individuals now have a right to have their personal data erased (sometime known as the 'right to be forgotten') where their personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purpose for which it was originally collected, and data portability must be done free of charge. Data portability refers to the ability to move, copy or transfer data easily between different computers such as a 'cloud' facility. Information shared on a cloud facility, should not include personal data.

If a request is received to delete information, then the DPO must respond to this request within a month. The DPO has the delegated authority from the Club to delete information. If a request is considered to be manifestly unfounded then the request could be refused or a charge may apply. The charge will be as detailed in the Club's Freedom of Information Publication Scheme. The Personnel Committee will be informed of such requests.

Children

There is special protection for the personal data of a child. The age when a child can give their own consent is 13. If the club requires consent from young people under 13, the club must obtain a parent or guardian's consent in order to process the personal data lawfully. Consent forms for children (under 13), must be written in language that children will understand.

Summary

The main actions arising from this policy are:

- The Club must be registered with the ICO. – this is to be confirmed
- A copy of this policy will be available on the Club's website. The policy will be considered as a core policy for the Club.
- The Club Secretary's Contract and Job Description (if appointed as DPO) will be amended to include additional responsibilities relating to data protection.
- An information audit will be conducted and reviewed at least annually or when projects and services change.
- Privacy statements will be issued.
- Data Protection will be included on the Club's Risk Management Policy.
- A Committee, with Terms of Reference, will be set up to manage the process.

This policy document is written with current information and advice. It will be reviewed at least annually or when further advice is issued by the ICO.

All employees, volunteers and members are expected to comply with this policy at all times to protect privacy, confidentiality and the interests of the Club.

This Policy is supported by the Terms of Reference for the Data Protection Committee.
